The Goose That Laid the Golden Egg

A man and his wife owned a very special goose. Every day the goose would lay a golden egg, which made the couple very rich.

"Just think," said the man's wife, "If we could have all the golden eggs that are inside the goose, we could be richer much faster."

"You're right," said her husband, "We wouldn't have to wait for the goose to lay her egg every day."

So, the couple tried to take the eggs out of the goose, only to find that she was just like every other goose. She had no golden eggs inside of her at all, and they had no more golden eggs. (116 語 ; タイトルを除いて 109 語)

<対話文>

Manabu: Here we are at Tokyo Station.

Keiko: How should we go to Nagoya?

Manabu: I think the bullet train is the most convenient. It's the fastest way.

Keiko: The bullet train? What is it?

Manabu It's the Shinkansen.

Keiko: Oh, I see. But the Shinkansen fare is quite expensive, isn't it? We don't have much money.

Manabu: You're right. Let's save our money. How about taking a bus?

Keiko: But it takes a long time by bus. Why don't we use "Moonlight Nagara," the midnight train? It's faster than the bus and cheaper than the Shinkansen.

Manabu: OK. I agree. Let's go. (94 語)
